Dear Chenega Shareholder,

I am Margaret Bauer and am honored to serve you as the new Shareholder Development Manager for Chenega Future, Inc. I recently replaced Anne Adasiak-Andrew who shared her wisdom and passion with me for three weeks before she moved forward in her life's journey to spend time with her family.

I have lived in Alaska for 35 years and hold a degree in education. My career path of educational instruction ranges from pre-K to adjunct faculty at the University of Alaska, Anchorage (UAA). I have spent much of my career in leadership with Providence Health & Services Alaska. In my most recent position there, as the Director of Work Life Services, I was responsible for overseeing and providing leadership for regional retention and work life programs for a wide spectrum of ages throughout the Alaska region. My experience included leading multiple teams and projects, training and development, quality improvement initiatives, program design and implementation. During my tenure, I developed and coordinated a regional scholarship program and supervised on-the-job internship placement for pre-service teachers at UAA. As a current steering committee member of the King Tech Anchorage High School (ASD, formerly King Career Center) I have helped to develop the career path for the Early Education program and mentored students to develop their skills, abilities and interests. As part of Alaska's workforce development plan I have contributed in building the professional career ladder with the Alaska System for Early Education and Development (SEED), and I currently serve on Alaska's Best Beginnings Board, as Governance Chair. I can already see how my previous work can be applied quite well to my new role as Shareholder Development Manager.

The first day I arrived on the job at Chenega Future Inc., I went to an ANCSA Education Consortium meeting and was delighted to know four colleagues that I have previously served with on community and state boards. I immediately knew I was in the right position to serve as the Manager of Shareholder Development! To culminate that first week, I attended Chenega Corporation's 44th Annual Shareholders' Meeting, which provided me the opportunity to meet many of you and experience the event. I am currently preparing for the 10th annual Future Quest and look forward to guiding our students in exploring careers, their culture, financial planning, community service projects, with the intent to inspire them as they join in on their personal quest into the future.

I look forward to serving each of you and your families, as I am committed to help you all achieve your goals! You may contact me directly at 907-230-2783 cell , 907-569-6923 office or via email mbauer@chenegafuture.com.

Sincerely,

Margaret Bauer
Shareholder Development Manager
